Arguments Begun on U. S. Action to Restrain Shop Crafts Union Activities

Counsel for Rail Employees Scores First in Biggest Legal Battle.

COURT TO HEAR HIS PLEA

That Injunction Be Dismissed So Far As It Relates to Jewell and Scott, Officials of Employees Department of Federation of Labor.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Arguments on the government's motion to make permanent the temporary injunction against the rail strikers were opened at 9:30 o'clock this morning, before Federal Judge Wilkerson. Blackwelder, assistant to the solicitor general, opened for the government, with a formal reading of the list of defendants on whom personal service had been obtained.

Donald Richberg, attorney for B. M. Jewell, president, and John Scott, secretary-treasurer of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, called attention to the motion filed Saturday asking for dismissal of the injunction so far as it relates to his clients and said it would take precedence over the government motion.

Mr. Richberg declared that the suits involved in the calling and condition of the strike were entirely lawful. The restraining order, he said, was one to court had not the power to issue, and he declared it is unconstitutional and violates the Clayton Act. The bill is stripped of its conspiracy allegations he added, all that is left is a bill to enjoin criminal acts by known persons who may or may not be members of the strikers' organization.

Mr. Esterline objected after Mr. Richberg had stated his plea, and moved the court to consider the government's motion.

Judge Wilkerson ruled there was a distinction between a motion to dismiss the bill and a motion to set aside the temporary restraining order. He said he would hear the strikers' motion on the former question.

The demand was by an overwhelming vote referred to the Judiciary Committee, in the opinion of leaders speaking of it finally.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Attorney General Daugherty, grinning broadly when shown a copy of an Associated Press article from Washington of the move to set aside the restraining order, said he would hear the strikers' motion on the former question.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Supported by one of the most formidable legal battalions the government has ever thrown into one court action, Attorney General H. M. Daugherty set forces in motion today toward the end of a permanent injunction in the broad strike. Reinforced by a vast mass of evidence of a gigantic plot of sabotage and terrorism, the attorney general presented his plea to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who granted the temporary restraining order September 1.

Arranged against the government lawyers and denying their charges of conspiracy to cripple the transportation machinery was Donald R. Richberg, attorney for the strikers' top leaders, against whom the government action is directed.

As opposition forces drew up for what was one of the most far-reaching court actions ever attempted both sides avoided much discussion of the case's possibilities.

While preparations for the proceedings were under way in the federal court the shop crafts policy committee of 30 was here to meet with B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, and leader of the strike.

Two carloads of evidence—tools of destruction, thousands of telegrams, letters, photographs, blue prints and books and transcripts of statements from 17,000 individuals—while the attorney general and his aides have there, were closely guarded by federal agents. Secret service officers protected Mr. Daugherty and the Wilkerson.

Effort to Impeach Attorney General Is Defeated in House

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Impeachment of Attorney General Daugherty is attempted in the House today by representatives Keller, Minnesota, independent Republican, who, rising a question of highest privilege, said: "I impeach Harry Daugherty."

Mr. Keller charged that Daugherty "used his high office to violate the constitution by abridging the freedom of speech and the freedom of the press and by abridging the right of people peaceably to assemble."

Mrs. Harding Has a Fairly Restful Night

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Mrs. Harding spent a "fairly restful night" but there was no marked change in her condition, Secretary Wallace was informed at the White House when he called shortly after 8 o'clock this morning to inquire as to her condition.

Secretary Weeks, who called at the White House soon after Mr. Wallace, announced Mrs. Harding had spent the best night in several and that the slight improvement set in yesterday was continuing, with the patient's temperature getting nearer normal.

An official White House bulletin on the condition of Mrs. Harding, issued at 10:08 today said:

"Mrs. Harding's condition at 9:30 A. M.: Temperature, 99.4; pulse, 97; respiration, 30.

"Night restful. Elimination increased. Complication subsiding. General appearance indicates improvement. Operative procedure deferred."

Senator McMillin McCormick of Illinois, after talking with Secretary Christian this morning, told correspondents that reports of Mrs. Harding's condition were more encouraging than last night. Indications, he said, pointed to an operation as Mrs. Harding's condition was much more able to stand it.

The relief felt by the President by the turn for the better was shown at noon when he left the executive mansion for a walk about the White House grounds. It was the first time he had left the mansion since Mrs. Harding's illness except Saturday when he made a brief visit to his office.

Prayer for the speedy recovery of Mrs. Harding was offered in the House today by the chaplain.

TURK VICTORY CREATES GRAVE STATE IN EUROPE

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Sweeping the Greek forces from Asia Minor in a whirlwind campaign lasting only two weeks the Turkish Nationalists won a great military victory and at the same time at least partly nullified the losses to their nation through the World War. Thus it created a situation full of the gravest possibilities—one demanding the immediate adoption of a united policy by Great Britain, France and Italy.

France and Italy are accused in some quarters of not only encouraging the Kemalists but of having supplied their arms and ammunition, although it is reported now in some circles that they are becoming alarmed at the unexpected successes of the Turks.

SMYRNA, Sept. 11.—Strong forces of Turkish Nationalist infantry were today holding strategic points in the city. The troops are under strict orders against indulgence in excesses, the foreign representatives at military headquarters have been informed by the Kemal command.

COAL PRODUCTION REDUCED BY LABOR DAY OBSERVANCE

Estimate Last Week, 8,700,000 Tons; Against 9,142,000 Previous Week.

LIMITED BY RAILROADS

Special to The Courier.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The weekly statement of coal production, issued by the United States Geological Survey, says that instead of the 9,142,000 tons suggested by the first reports, final returns on Sept. 10 show only 8,700,000 tons in the week ended September 10. The record of the week was awaited with interest as an indication of the supply to be expected after general resumption of mining under the Cleveland agreement. In the present week, September 10, because of the Labor Day holiday, the output can hardly exceed 8,700,000 tons. Production of anthracite, though expected shortly, has not yet been resumed.

The trend of output, day by day, is shown by the statement of cars of bituminous coal loaded. The early promise of last week, as indicated by loadings of 30,862 cars on Monday, August 28, was not fully borne out by the reports of Friday and Saturday, when loadings dropped to 27,040 and 25,517 cars, respectively. On Labor Day 10,021 cars were loaded by the non-union mines, confirming the experience of other years that the day counts for a third of an ordinary working day. The double holiday on Sunday and Monday increased the number of empty cars available for placement on Tuesday and on that day 33,088 cars were loaded, the largest number on any day since last March.

On Wednesday, however, loadings dropped to 30,612 cars and on Thursday to 28,238 cars. These returns suggest a total output for the present week of between 3,000,000 and 3,400,000 tons.

The limiting factor in the supply of soft coal has now become transportation. It is true that some thousands of miners are still on strike, notably the Connellsville and Keokuk strikers, but the tonnage offered for shipment by the other mines at work will absorb the available transportation facilities. The demand for coal is active and prices are high. Under such conditions coal is offered for shipment up to the limit of the ability of the railroads to transport it.

The present rate of production is 9,600,000 tons a week. In the corresponding period of 1920 the average was 11,760,000 tons; in 1919, 11,340,000 tons; and in 1918, about 12,800,000 tons. The present rate of soft coal movement, even with priority in use of open-top cars, is therefore 25 per cent below 1918, 35 per cent below 1919, and 18 per cent below 1920.

The production of bituminous coke showed a large increase during the week ended September 2. Preliminary estimates based on reports on the number of cars loaded by the principal coke-carrying railroads indicate that 142,000 net tons were produced in the week including the last days of August and the first two days of September. Production increased in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and the Southern Appalachian district and was unchanged in the West. According to The Courier, there was a gain of one in the number of active plants and the number of ovens in blast increased to 7,993 from 7,826 in the previous week against 12,884 in the week ended April 8.

Cumulative production from January to date stands at 4,232,000, which is about 79 per cent behind 1918, 65 per cent behind 1919, and 71 per cent behind 1920, but 10 per cent ahead of 1921, which was a year of great industrial depression.

Ford Bans Booze Both Inside and Outside of Plant

By Associated Press.

Asserting that drinking among employees recently had been the cause of accidents the manufacturer issued a statement declaring any of his workmen whose breath smelt of liquor, who are known to have it in their houses, will be dismissed at once.

HARD COAL OPERATORS SIGN AGREEMENT; MEN ARE ALREADY AT WORK

By Associated Press.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 11.—The contract that sent 155,000 mine workers back to work at their old wages after being idle more than five months was formally signed today by representatives of the miners and the operators. The contract, which runs until August 31, 1923, was signed in the office of President W. W. Inglis of the Glen Alden Coal Company.

Only the operators were present to witness the formal and one of the greatest wage struggles that has ever taken place in the hard coal fields.

WILKES-BARRRE, Pa., Sept. 11.—In striking contrast to the idleness of the last five months the anthracite coal fields today were the scenes of feverish activity when most of the 155,000 mine workers who responded to the suspension order of their union on April 1 returned to work. Many did not wait for the formal signing of the agreement which was ratified Saturday by their tri-district convention but at the months of the mines when the whistles blew.

Signing of the pact by union officials and representatives of the operators was set for 11 o'clock.

PROSECUTION OF KEPHART TO BEGIN AT ONCE

Information Charging Misdemeanor to Be Sworn Out During the Day.

ACT OF 1874 VIOLATED

By Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 11.—Immediate steps are to be taken by Attorney General Alter on the lines announced in his opinion filed last night on the treasury audit report submitted to him by Auditor General Lewis and on which heaving were laid this summer. Each move will be personally directed by the attorney general.

Today, First Deputy George Hall will discuss the start of the prosecution against Harmon M. Kephart, former state treasurer, with the district attorney of Dauphin county and an information will likely be made before night, charging Mr. Kephart with violating the Act of 1874 requiring "correct and accurate account" of the state funds be kept while he was treasurer and conducting the so-called "war fund."

The warrant will be served without delay.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 11.—Prosecution of former State Treasurer Harmon M. Kephart, now deputy state treasurer, on a charge of misdemeanor or for alleged failure to keep correctly the account of his office as prescribed by law, is recommended by Attorney General George E. Alter in an opinion covering matters in connection with the state treasury audit, made public here last night.

The attorney general announced the State will take steps to recover interest on money drawn out by Kephart for various payments and later restored by him to obtain any profits that might have been realized by the Carnegie Trust Company through its use of the money of the State in transactions wherein there were delayed deposits.

Both the proposed prosecution of the former state treasurer and the proceedings recommended against the trust company are based upon the so-called "war fund" fund. In other instances, the attorney general said, the statute on limitations operates against prosecution of Kephart and persons alleged to have received money without rendering service to the State.

He said he is "not passing on the question of guilt or innocence."

"Prima facie there is a plain case," the opinion says. "The records which the law commands the treasurer to keep correctly were kept incorrectly, intentionally so, and for the purpose of converting the earnings of a part of the funds of the Commonwealth."

A jury may hear the explanation and find that no offense was committed. That is its function, not mine. The question of guilt or innocence is wholly for it to decide."

Kephart was treasurer from May, 1917, to April 1921. He became deputy treasurer soon after his term expired.

Young Woman Returning From Funeral of Father Killed in Motor Mishap

Uniontown Is Patrolled by State Police

By Associated Press.

Three mounted state policemen were assigned to duty in Uniontown today and while the police powers of the city were not taken over by the State Police Department, persons arrested by the officers will be arraigned before an alderman and not before the mayor.

In Uniontown it was announced about 50 additional state policemen were distributed over the southern end of the county during the day.

Simultaneous with an attempt to blow up the home of M. L. Toets of Fairchance, Saturday evening, came the announcement Sunday from state police headquarters that three more state police stations would be opened in Fayette county this morning.

All of the members of Troop E, located in Washington county for the past several months, were withdrawn this morning and ordered to open stations at Point Marion, Maxwell and Uniontown. The additional troops in Fayette county number about 50 men. In addition to the new posts, men will be detailed to do general patrol duty.

The re-establishment of the post in Uniontown came following a request made by Sheriff J. I. Shaw to Captain Herbert Smith, following the trouble of last Thursday. The Uniontown detail was moved to Connellsville about a month ago and since that time the situation locally has been in charge of the Uniontown police force.

ARNOLD CITY MURDER CASE ON IN COURT

George Carp of Brownsville was placed on trial in Uniontown today at the opening of the second week of September criminal court for the slaying of John Tomolsky at Arnold City May 28. Carp and George Smock were to be tried jointly for the murder but their counsel decided to handle the cases separately.

The killing was the result of a drunken brawl in which Tomolsky was slain to have appeared in the role of peacemaker, between Carp and Smock. Tomolsky was killed by a charge from a revolver.

Herman C. Vandrill and Harry Rothevater were convicted of receiving stolen goods on the first bail by a jury Saturday afternoon in connection with the W. W. Seaman robbery at Scottsdale a year ago.

Both of the defendants were committed to jail. Vandrill was committed last week when Andy Butch failed to appear for hearing. Vandrill being on his bail for $1,000. One of the chief witnesses during the hearing was Miss Goldie Livingston of Connellsville, said to have represented herself as the wife of the defendant Vandrill. Miss Livingston, through her interest in Vandrill, unconsciously threw considerable light upon the case, it being through her that Mr. Seaman got his principal witness, the Hull family, who testified they saw the defendants with cigars in their car which Mr. Hull later found hidden in the bushes near his home at Washington Springs.

During the course of her examination Miss Livingston testified that the mountain was full of stolen tires, etc., and that the guilty parties were already in jail. Counsel for the Commonwealth scored her actions severely. She said she believed the defendants to be innocent and that she would protect any innocent man. In rebuttal Mr. and Mrs. Seaman were called to refute her testimony regarding her conversation at the Seaman home.

Returning Sunday evening from the funeral of her father, John C. Milligan of Prittsstown, Mrs. Nellie Gertrude McBeth, 25 years old, wife of Raymond E. McBeth of Buena Vista, was killed when a tire on their automobile collapsed four miles west of Greensburg and the machine turned over. She lived but 15 minutes. The new cattle barn, recently erected, with a capacity of 100 head, has been completed to the limit and other stock is being cared for in tents. A solid trainload of 23 cars of stock arrived yesterday at Dawson. Another noticeable feature, this year is the great amount of livestock being transported by trucks.

With so many exhibits that display space was arranged, a record number of 204 pavilions and trailers ready for the "go" of high-class amusements and 14 entertaining shows; 14 free vaudeville acts, including two of Keith's big time acts; Joe Niro's Pittsburgh Band of 50 pieces; Wilson's Modellers; Orchestra for the dance; and everything that is essential for an enjoyable day, patrons of the seventh annual Fayette County Fair will be thoroughly pleased with the predominating annual event, those in charge say.

Wednesday and Thursday will be the "two big days." The old idea of racing, Thursday has been permanently abandoned. Although the Dawson fair ground is equipped to handle big crowds, the facilities were always overtaxed on Thursdays. Duplicate features will be presented on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The only deviation will be in the racing program. But this has been so arranged that equally good races will be run off on Wednesday and Thursday.

The race track is in the best possible condition. In daily use since last May, the half-mile oval is so fast that the track record of 2:09 1/4 will likely be lowered. There are entries on both Wednesday and Thursday which are capable of hanging up a new track record.

Big crowds are expected each evening. Except for the racing, the evening program will be identical with that of the afternoon. Nirena's band will play a concert of popular numbers, all the shows along the Midway will be open and the Mendelssohn orchestra will play for the dancers in the new Cochran Auditorium.

Thirteen Are Killed

In Motor Accidents

In Allegheny County

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 11.—Thirteen persons met death in automobile accidents in Allegheny county so far this month, according to a report issued at the coroner's office today.

The 13th fatality was recorded this morning when Sadie May Lang, 12, died in a hospital. She was struck by an automobile last Saturday.

The official board of the Christian Church will meet this evening, chiefly to consider the purchase of a new pipe organ.

Former Officer Is Located Here, Living With Girl

Charged with living with Marie Coogan, 16-year-old girl, as his wife, Walter A. Stewart, a former traffic officer of Altoona, was arrested by R. C. Bledson, captain of Baltimore and Ohio police, and will be taken back to his former city to await trial. Charges are being preferred against him by the mother of the girl.

Stewart is alleged to have deserted his wife and children to run off with the girl. When the officers approached him he almost convinced them he knew nothing of the girl but then the police were notified she was at a local hotel and Stewart was made a prisoner.

TRAFFIC HEAVY

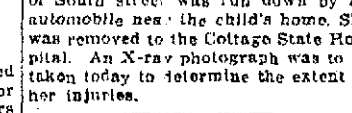

Many Cars Travel Highways; Thousands Cross Bridge.

Automobile travel was heavier yesterday on both National Pike and the Conneltsville-Uniontown highway than for many Sundays. The cars formed strings of 10 or 12 at places and for the most part there was a time of only a few minutes between machines.

Between 5:15 and 6:45 a count of cars between the city limits of Conneltsville and Uniontown going towards Uniontown only, totaled 111. It is estimated that 1,000 machines passed over the Youngblood river bridge yesterday. Because of repairs being made there, travel is permitted on only one side and at times the string of machines awaiting a turn to cross the structure extended as far east on Crawford avenue as the West Penna waiting room.

Child Run Down by Automobile

Jacqueline (Twin, three years old, of South street) was run down by an automobile near the child's home. She was removed to the Cottage State Hospital. An X-ray photograph was taken today to determine the extent of her injuries.

A Mullah Habit.

It was Betty's first visit to the country and when she saw the chickens scratching vigorously on the walk she ran to her mother in alarm.

"Why, Betty," said her mother, "are you afraid of chickens?"

"Yes," said the child, "they kicked at me."

Rural Roles.

"Are you serving your country or working for re-election?" asked the meddlesome person.

"Both," said the statesman. "As regards the first, I court the fullest publicity. As for the other, the less said about it the better."

Reportage.

The lady remarked: "Hobo, did you notice that pile of wood in the yard?"

"Yes, I seen it."

"You should mind your grammar. You mean you saw it."

A Fireproof Building.

"What did the heroic fireman do?"

"One brave yelled: 'Throw the pup out a window and come down yourself on an elevator!'"

CRINOLINE IN RED BROWN

Flowers or Ribbon Ruching Are Used on This Type of Headgear by Paris Women.

Of the hats seen in smart places nowadays, writes a Paris correspondent, none is more a favorite than the crinoline in red-brown. Flowers or ribbon ruching are used on this type of hat, the shade of which is so accommodating that it can be and is worn with almost any color. Another type of hat is made entirely from black varnished lace, tightly stretched on wire. Sometimes the black lace hat is trimmed with nothing more than a narrow band of black satin ribbon with a bit of silver above it. Small hats in crepe de chine are usually in the same color as the costume.

COLORS FOR THE SWEATERS

Beautiful Greens and Yellows are included in the Charming Array Now Being Offered.

The silk sweater—which, after all is said and done, is the expression of the de luxe sweater that retains its luster and softness after all others have gone down under the count—appears in an array of delightful colors and patterns this season.

A special feature was made of these sweaters in an especially charming collection of colors and patterns. Practically every color is admitted into the assemblage, although the especially bright tones are passed over. Beautiful greens and yellows are included in the array, both in pale and rich shades of the colors.

One of the latest numbers was seen in a deep buff color with white stripes in which were introduced a pattern producing a chevron drop in the sleeve surface and forming a decorative border.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

"ALWAYS THE WOMAN," showing today and tomorrow at this theatre, presents Betty Compson in the stellar role. This romance of the ages was produced, under Miss Compson's personal supervision, by Arthur Rosson, who directed her in two other productions distributed by Goldwyn, "Prisoners of Love" and "For Those We Love." It is a throbbing, pulsating picture—a love romance, with heroes and villains of various kinds and races. Its settings are unusual and picturesque and afford a background to the rapid action which is always pleasing to the eye.

The story upon which "Always the Woman" was founded was written by Percy Poole Sheehan, a popular writer for the fiction magazines, and was selected by Miss Compson after reading hundreds of stories. The cast with which she has surrounded herself is as brilliant as that assembled for "Prisoners of Love."

Appearing with Miss Compson in this picture are Emory Johnson, Macey Harlam, Doris Pawn, Gerald Price, Richard Rosson and Arthur Delmore. Emory Johnson's work in "Prisoners of Love" was of such excellence that Miss Compson re-engaged him for her second picture. He previously played leads opposite Mary Pickford, Dorothy Dalton, Ethel Clayton and Constance Talmadge.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE BIGAMIST," the leading attraction today and tomorrow at this theatre, tells of how a brave wife wins in spite of heavy odds. "The Bigamist" unveils a story of powerful dramatic effect although there are moments of delightful comedy scattered throughout its course. The story has to do with the struggles of a courageous young wife who suddenly finds that she has married a bigamist. The discovery comes on the morning following the third anniversary of her wedding. Her two fine children are left nameless, her home of happiness becomes a debris of blasted hopes. The brave manner in which she faced this terrible crisis and won her way to final happiness makes a theme of tremendous dramatic power. "The Bigamist" was directed by Guy Newall, who also played opposite Miss Duke. The entrancing beauty of Ivy Duke, the smart simplicity of her many intriguing costumes, the eye-drawing backgrounds and many other outstanding factors make "The Bigamist" a picture of exceptional appeal. Miss Duke, hailed as the greatest screen beauty in the world, also proves herself an artist of unusual attainments in this remarkable drama.

Wednesday and Thursday "Yellow Men" will be shown.

THE ORPHEUM.

"AFTER THE SHOW," starring Lila Lee, supported by Jack Holt, is the feature picture today and tomorrow at this theatre. Pop O'Nailor, an old stage doorkeeper, finds in little Eileen, a beautiful chorus girl, one whom he can love as a father. He adopts her and when Larry Taylor, the millionaire "angel" of the show, displays interest in Eileen, Pop warns her against him. Eileen learns to love Larry. When he invites her to a week-end party at his summer home, Pop protests. Eileen refuses Larry's invitations, but later when he tells her he loves her, she agrees to go.

That night Eileen slips from her room and joins Larry in his car. Pop hears her footsteps and follows. Eileen is fully under Larry's arm when Pop arrives. As a last desperate measure to save the girl, Pop breaks a champagne bottle and slashes his wrist. A physician orders a transfusion. Eileen volunteers but Larry tells Pop he loves Eileen and wants to marry her. Pop seizes and as Eileen goes to Larry's arms, his expression reflects the happiness which has come to the little girl who has meant so much to him in his life.

917 Men Killed in Coal Mines of U. S. First 7 Months 1922

During the first seven months of the present year 917 men have been killed by accidents at coal mines in the United States, as compared with 1,163 accidental deaths at such mines during the corresponding period last year, states the Federal Bureau of Mines. The figures for 1922 represent a decrease of 25 fatalities, or 21 per cent, from the 1921 figures. The production of coal in the first seven months of 1922 amounted to 226,292,600 tons, a decrease of approximately 15 per cent from the figures for the same period last year, 279,869,000 tons.

The fatality rates for the two seven-month periods were 4.15 last year and 4.05 for 1922 per million tons. For bituminous mines alone the corresponding rates were 3.69 per million tons in 1922 as compared with 3.73 per million tons in 1921.

With two exceptions, all of the main causes of accidents during 1922 compare favorably with the seven-month record last year and with the entire year 1921. The largest reduction is in accidents from explosives. The rate from haulage accidents is about the same as for the first seven months of 1921, but it is about 14 per cent higher than the average for the whole year 1921. Gas and dust explosions have resulted in a fatality rate more than double that for the year 1921 or for the first seven months last year.

Coal mine fatalities during July, 1922, numbered 74 as compared with 162 in July last year, according to reports received by the Bureau of Mines from state mine inspectors. The reduction was due primarily to the fact that most of the mines throughout the country were closed on account of the miners' strike. This situation caused the output of coal to decline from 37,693,000 tons in July last year to 17,151,000 tons in July, 1922, a reduction of about 54 per cent. The fatality rate was 4.31 per million tons of coal produced, almost identical with the rate for July last year, 4.30. For bituminous mines alone, the July rate this year was 4.05 as against 3.72 for July a year ago.

During the past nine years, 1913-1921, the month of July has averaged 298 fatalities with an average production of 48,446,000 tons, representing a fatality rate of 4.19.

There was no single accident at coal mines in July that caused as many as five fatalities.

ANCIENT BELL IS PERIL TO SPRINGFIELD, ILL., CHURCH

Members Are Afraid It Will Giv
Way and Crash Through the Roof.

The deep, sonorous tone of a great bell ringing out over the city the other day reminded members of the Central Baptist church of Springfield, Ill., that they had a problem to solve which has been pending for many years.

High in the belfry of the old church is a great bell that in years gone by called the congregation to worship. The church is being renovated and a workman was sent into the belfry to clean it out. In his work he grasped the wheel that turns the bell, and its deep throated voice sent out an intonation that has not been heard for a quarter of a century.

The question confronting the church is how to get this useless bell down. It weighs about 3,000 pounds and because of its age is becoming a danger. Its support, while at present firm, must in the course of time weaken. An examination discloses that to get the bell to the ground it will probably be necessary to cut a hole in the ceiling of the church to let it through. A large timber has been placed beneath the heavy metal as a precaution should its supports give way. The heavy clepper is held in place only by a leather attachment.

The bell has considerable historical value. It was made in 1784 and is made in Westphalia, Germany, in 1854. The inscription on it reads, "Fabrik Van Major & Kuhnlebochum in Westphalia 1854 Gussstahl."

Old residents do not recall when it was purchased by the Baptist church, but it is known the bell formerly was in a Baptist church at Seventh and Adams streets here which was torn down many years ago to make way for business buildings. At that time the city hall stood near the church and it is thought the bell had some connection with the town clock in the city hall. It was called the town clock bell.

Like many other church bells of the kind, it has done its service and its once rich and powerful voice has been silenced for the comfort of late sleepers. The Central Baptist church, built in 1881, stands two blocks from and within sight of the state capitol. Many legislators, governors and politicians have attended church here.

In comparison with famous bells of the world, this one is not large. The largest is said to be at Moscow. It weighs 128 tons. A bell in Peking, China, weighs 53 tons. It is said, and one in the cathedral at Cologne weighs 28 tons. In recent times bells have been constructed of 10 parts of copper to five parts of tin and their proportions in size have been such that the thickness would be one-fifth of the diameter and the height 12 times the thickness. The old bell here seems to have been built principally of iron.

Cokers Defeat Mill Town Outfit at End Of 11 Innings, 1-0

Game Is Forced Into Extra
Period; Fans Delighted With Contest.

KOZAR IS REAL HERO

If ever a pitcher deserved to win a baseball game, it was Kozar on Saturday. He did, finally, after 11 innings and Connellsville hung up its third consecutive victory over the Scottdale Independents. The Coker pitcher was suffering with a sore arm even before the contest opened and in spite of that fact pitched starting baseball, fanning 13 batters and walking none. One man, Blackstone, he hit with a pitched ball. Every toss but his throwing arm, but time and again he pitched himself out of a hole. Inability of the locals to hit when opportunities to score presented themselves and the throwing away of runs by carelessness in the early stages of the contest prolonged the event into the 11th frame.

The ball park held a large crowd and not a fan went away that was not satisfied. Many described the clash as "the best baseball game in years," and are now bemoaning the fact that the Independents are through for the season. The team on the field Saturday was undoubtedly the best assembled by the Cokers this year.

Frank Horne was on the mound for Scottdale. He was picked for 10 innings and although in some deep water several times always managed to extricate himself, once or twice with a little help from the Cokers themselves. He mixed his balls considerably and used his slow one frequently. The Connellsvilleans almost broke their backs on it for a time and then began to walk for it with better results.

Scottdale had men on base in both the first and second innings but Kozar showed the stuff and with two down each time, fanned the third batter. Frazier died at the same station in Connellsville's half of the second, and not another Connellsville player got on base until the fifth, then Bloom died on the half-way sack. Men did not go second and third in the seventh. Kozar was stranded without success in the eighth, after his clean double. In the ninth the locals filed the bags, and then were retired one, two three as the batters popped the ball to the infield.

Scottdale had an opportunity to score in the fourth when Smith reached third. Two were down and Davin dropped a high bouncer in the dirt. Son of Sammy Labiak at third Smith had started home but he slowed down, hesitated in front of the ball and then as it bounced over his head belted for the rubber. Umpire Wall had seen his actions, however, and called the runner out before he reached the plate. Labiak had become somewhat rattled by the runner's actions and, securing the ball, he made a wide throw to first, drawing Bloom from the bag. Davin was safe but Smith's interference had retired the side. Scottdale kicked strenuously, even threatening to quit "The management though" again, however after siding up the crowd and play was resumed.

After the ninth inning attempt of the Cokers to win, especially with the paths packed, the crowd was given a little relaxation in the tenth. Two were down when Horne got on but he never went beyond first base, O'Toole popping out immediately afterward. Connellsville fared no better. Shomo popped out. Patterson was out, Durkin to Davin, and Fisher was forced at second by Frazier after the former had received the only pass of the afternoon.

The Mill Towners looked dangerous in the final frame. Blackstone, the first man up, singled and then stole second. Buck and Molago, two of the most dangerous hitters on the team, followed next. Kozar treated the fans to some real pitching by striking both batters. Then Smith, who knocked a home run in the first game of the year with Scottdale, filed out to Fisher.

In Connellsville's half Yanchus opened with a single. He went second on Bloom's sacrifice bunt and then Sammy Labiak shouldered the responsibility of winning the game by sending a grounder over third base. Steve raced home and, taking no chances on a put-out at the plate, took a lefty slide towards the rubber, disappearing from sight in a cloud of dust. The throw was a trifle wide, however, and the game was won.

Kozar's arm was so sore at one point of the game that he could hardly lift a water dipper to his mouth yet he put his shoulder over the plate so snugly that he called the best on the Scottdale team.

In only two innings Kozar failed to produce a strikeout. They were the fourth and ninth. In all others he had one or two.

The gritty Coker pitcher got a big hand when he stepped to the plate with his bat in the fourth time he faced Horne. The first time he struck out, then produced a single and don't popping out the next time in.

Kozar was applauded in the seventh after he had struck out Smith. It took 11 balls to do it and every toss but only was determined. The powerful Scottdale catcher, swig at the first two and missed clean. Then he fouled the next four pitches. Another offering was called a ball and then Smith tipped three more. His final swing was a fatal one, however, it being another whiff.

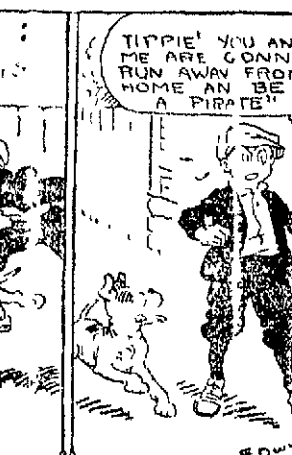

Buck was a victim of Kozar's pitching four times in a row and Blackstone suffered twice. Blackstone went down two times and Billy Melago did likewise.

The game was the second in three weeks that Sammy Labiak won for the Cokers. His single in the first class with Johnstown brought in the winning run.

Kozar and Smith had another tilt in the eleventh. The Mill town pitcher missed the first fouled the second, the third was a ball he fouled the next two and then filed out to Fisher.

The players on the bench expressed their regret at not being able to end the game sooner and relieve Kozar from the box. The whole team admired his grit and played the harder for the fact.

The Food Show

"LET GOOD DIGESTION wait on health and appetite on both" wrote William Shakespeare, many years ago.

We agree that Health is the foundation of most of our happiness and claim that therein lies the reason why you will find the Fall Food Show so entertaining.

Its demonstrations will suggest new recipes and methods that cannot help but increase the health and well being of your family.

The Famous 57 of Heinz

We have a letter from the Heinz Co. stating that the Food Show demonstration of their products will be the greatest that the city has ever seen.

The 57 of Heinz need no introduction—they are known the country over for their purity and taste. This demonstration will afford you an opportunity to become even better acquainted with them. Special prices will prevail on many of their products.

A New and Better Vanilla

Perhaps you have thought that no improvement could be made in Vanilla—that good old flavoring standby.

The makers of Marshall's Pure Vanilla think otherwise—and proceed to prove that they are right.

Their demonstrator will point the way to more delicious cakes, puddings and cookies.

How Do You Make Coffee?

Besides offering you their product at a very special price the Franco American Coffee people will show us how to improve our coffee-making.

In this better coffee you will have a means of combating Friend Hubby's early morning grouch and of providing yourself with a refreshing, stimulating drink whenever you get a wee bit fagged. This knowledge, in itself, is worth a trip downtown.

Let the Elephant Do It!

Apply the wisdom of circus men to your Monday labors and you'll cease to dread washday.

Let the elephant do it!

In your case the hardworking elephant comes to you on the package of Rub-N-More Washing Powder—and on their other products. You're getting some in your free basket. Try it out and see how it lightens your work.

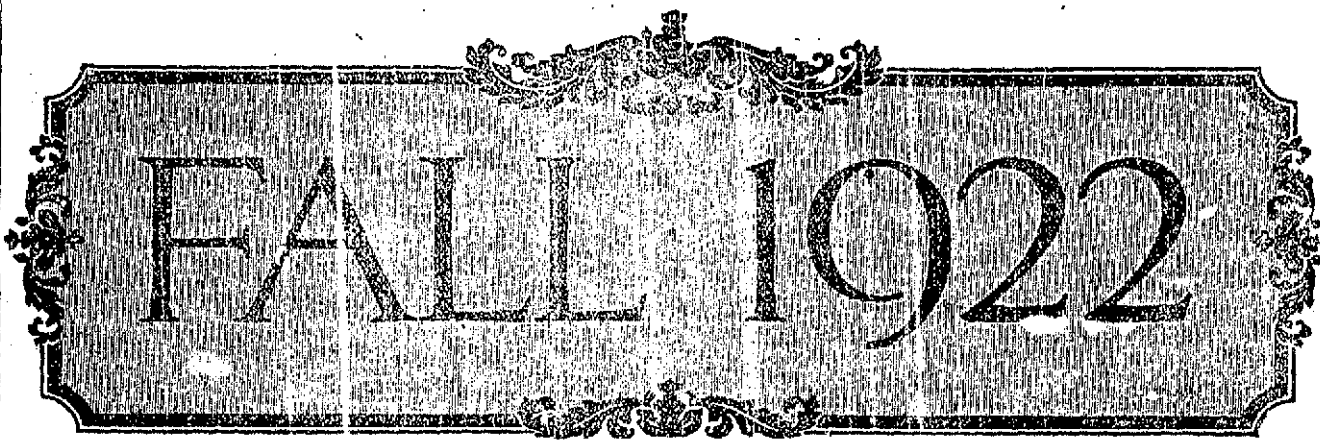

Fould's Macaroni

If Bread is the staff of life, Macaroni is its first assistant.

Because the Italian people recognize that let they are a strong and sturdy race, American folks would do well to learn a lesson from them.

Properly prepared macaroni has come to be looked upon less as a staple food and more as a delicacy. The package in your free basket enables you to test its virtues for yourself.

CHAPTER VIII

It was a long time before Drace found a boat to set him over to the opposite shore. It was so late when he reached the Bethpage place that he did not go up to his room. The house was so quiet, the hounds themselves asleep, that he stole into the garden to pass the remainder of the night on a couch in the summer house. The air was heavy with roses breathing in through the lattice, and as he straightened out, grateful for repose, this thought came to him:

"Pale they call death, but to me it will ever be red. And I have looked into its red countenance, and was not afraid. I thank God that He gave me that strength. But what a melodrama!"

At the breakfast table, Tyele, with mother tenderness, upbraided Drace for sleeping out for fear of arousing the house. Afterward Drace and the General strolled out under the trees.

"By the way," the General said presently. "I have an engagement to deliver an address before a teachers' meeting in Natchez, and I should much like to have you bear me company. We can leave this evening on the Black Hawk and reach there early in the morning."

"I'd like very much to go," answered Drace. "But can we get back before Thursday?"

"Certainly," by Wednesday morning, the General said. "I'll be home by Thursday."

"Oh, yes. An old fellow down at the bank wants me to go fishing with him tomorrow, and I gave him my word that I'd be on hand. Most remarkable coincidence, isn't it?"

"Ah, Tyele! Mr. Drace has just consented to give me his company," the General said.

The Black Hawk's band played a waltz, and the captain came down the plank to greet the General. On seeing Drace, he smiled, and almost immediately the place leaped into the full throes of life. Negroes, and white men, came from their hovels to gaze upon the magic splendor of this journeying palace, and the three-shell man stopped ashore to gather up dollars.

Dinner was a state occasion, and after it, the ball. Then their state-rooms—then morning and Natchez. The address was to be delivered in the afternoon, and when the time came the General led him over to the hall to hear the speech, imprisoned him without ball in a corner, and there he had to sit. The address was long, academic and dull, and the sufferer mused.

"I don't see why Shattler ever called you a remarkable character." Everybody came about the General to take his hand. Young women told him that they had never been so thrilled. Drace lied to him, too, swore him an oath.

"Let us walk off alone," said the General. Slowly they walked at first, but after a time the old gentleman struck a brisker pace toward the river.

"Now, my boy, as I've got through with those hours of dust out of old carpets, well, have some fun. Old Colcord Pemberton wanted me to go home with him, and he has a delightful house, a gracious wife and handsome daughter, but I had to decline. I've stood about as much now as I can. We'll go down to old Tobie Mason's tavern, under the hill. Tobie is a gentle old fellow, never killed but three men. One of them was Tobie's leg off and now he wears a peg, and I want to tell you that when he naps, he's right meddlesome. At a trial in the courthouse here not long ago, the judge issued an order that all deadly weapons must be left with the deputy sheriffs at the door—and sh, they made, old Tobie take off his wooden leg."

The tavern was as tough a place as river men could make it. Built of logs, bricks, stone and clapboards, it looked like an architectural stagger, trying to climb the hill. In the main room was the bar. Herein Tobie gave his famous 'bosom' feasts and dances, when the spirit of liquor mounted high enough to swing its partner off the ground.

"Well, I'll be invoked in the hand for a star!" old Tobie cried out, stumbling toward the General. "I haven't seen you since the River trip, fire. Well, well! Thinkin' about you the other day. . . Glad to shake your hand, Mr. Drace. Set right down!"

"Tobie, I'm glad to see you," said the General. "And fetch us about two quarts of that summer-grape wine. Let me tell you about it. Drace, we have a wild grape here that gets ripe along in August. It's much larger and is not sour like the fox-grape, and its vine likes to climb about a sassafras sapling. And then you see an umbrella of grapes. Now don't say a word till you've had a good taste of it. Tobie makes it himself, and he'll fetch us some that's at least twenty-five years old. Here we are."

The wine was as red as blood, cool and yet warm. Its flavor was the ripened sweetness of the spirit of autumn, it was as mellow as the scent of the apple at harvest time.

"What do you think of it, hey?" "Uncle Howard, are you sure that this was not made by Bechus instead of Tobie?"

"Good, my boy! Enjoying yourself?" "Yes, I'm doing fine, General. You see, I can't express myself as well as you can. I haven't as much to draw from. You've not only book-knowledge but experience, worth more so-called than all the libraries in the world."

"You hit it off well. But what is better than it all? Moral freedom. This table here is rough, with one rheumatic leg slightly drawn, these chairs we sit in, bottomed with strips of hickory bark, would be scorned at a sheriff's sale, but sir Mark Antony, in his first triumph, his chariot drawn by lions, was not more regal than we are at this moment, sustained and supported with moral freedom. Pour out for us that same Antony said: 'Scant not my cups—tobe, where's that old sounder who used to play 'The Arkansas Traveler'?"

Tobie stumped his way over from the bar. "You mean old Silthers?"

"That's the man. What's become of him?"

"Nothin'. And I reckon he's playin' right now down at Cadman's Joint, that ought to be wiped off the earth. Want him?"

"Need him, Tobias. Send a boy after him."

Old Silthers, bald and wrinkled, came with his home-made fiddle. The Old Silthers, bald and wrinkled, came with his home-made fiddle.

General greeted him warmly, introduced him to Drace, and the most comfortable chair in the house provided him. He sat down to play the famous old tune and to retire the dialogue, improvising where his memory failed him.

The General caught his delight, said that he would go on the stand to swear against Sour Sassafras in favor of the fiddle's dialogue. "Tobe," he shouted, "fetch in the buck and wing dancers!"

Tobie went to the door, called as if calling, hoarsely, and in came two big negroes, a throng of others following them. At it they went, shaking the house and when whistles threatened to, seize them for refreshment they drew off and leaping, butted their heads together like goats. After a time the General gave them a dollar apiece, disarmed them—gave the fiddle a new, with an order to play that old tune again. Old Tobie was now lighting his evening lamps. The General called to him.

"Toby, what have you for supper?" The old fellow closed one eye. "What have I got?" he says. Ah, that's it. An' I'll tell you. I've got hoe-cake and roasted doves."

"No, you don't mean it!" "How cake and roasted doves, I said."

"Good, by Gideon's Band. Fetch us, Tobias. And mark you, along with it all bring about a trowel full of that wild plant jelly."

Highly Educational. "Do you believe the movies are instructive?"

"Certainly. Elderly ladies in little country towns who have never been out of the counties where they were born can tell you all about the under-world of Paris."

Worse Than "Dry." Merriam—I hear they've gone dry in the village where your brother lives. Sandy—Dry! Man, they've gone parched. I've just had a letter from Tam, an' would you believe it, the postage stamp was stuck w' a pin!—London 11-11-11.

Too Literal. "Well, did you hire a flat from that agent?"

"I did not. I remarked that I wanted one big enough to turn around in and hanged if he didn't ask me to stand up while he took my exact measurements."

RESEARCH WORK IN COAL MINING TO BE CONDUCTED AT TECH

Four Fellowships Established to Conduct Investigations.

PROBLEMS ARE SELECTED

Through the efforts of the coal operators of Western Pennsylvania, another year of extensive research work in coal mining will be conducted by the cooperative department of mining engineering of Carnegie Institute of Technology and the Pittsburgh Transportation Station by the United States Bureau of Mines. The research will be carried on through teaching and research fellowship appointed by Carnegie Tech and supervised by senior investigators in the experimental station.

The establishment of four fellowships to do this work in 1933 and 34 is an endorsement of similar investigations conducted this past year at these institutions. Four fellowships were established a year ago by the advisory board of coal operators of the cooperative department of mining engineering, at Tech. They also chose the problems for the research work. The Pittsburgh district is the first to take this progress step in solving the problem of coal mining. When the results of the research work are broadcasted the whole industry should be benefited.

The investigations of the four research fellows conducted the past year are completed and reports will soon be available to the coal industry for the coming year. Appointments have already been made by the cooperative department of coal mining to begin the work in September. The problems selected by the advisory board of operators have been assigned to the fellows in accordance with their specific training and adaptability in making the appointments, applications were considered from all parts of the United States reflecting the wide interest in large research work of coal mining problems.

The four problems to be investigated, as recommended by the advisory board are: (1) De-sulfurization of coke. (2) Corrosion problem with regard to acid mine waters. (3) Microscopic study of the Pittsburgh coal seam. (4) By-product study of the roof coal of the Pittsburgh coal seam.

The results of the research investigations are filed in the past year being prepared for publication. The following problems were studied:

(1) Relative tendency of various Pennsylvania coals to fire spontaneously with particular regard to the influence of different coal constituents. (2) Investigation of acid-bearing materials suitable for use in cements. (3) Microscopic study of the Pittsburgh coal seam. (4) By-product study of the roof coal of the Pittsburgh coal seam.

ALFALFA VALUED BY ANCIENTS

Cultivated in Italy During the First Century, and From There Spread Over Europe.

Records show that alfalfa was brought into Greece from Persia in 490 B. C. It reached Italy during the first century, and slowly spread over Europe. From Spain it was carried to Mexico, and thence spread north and south during the sixteenth century.

New England got word from Europe about the same time. But the plants died the second season and the culture of the new plant was generally ignored by farmers. Only recently has it been adopted to a place among agricultural crops in the East by the discovery that soil inoculation establishes the plant and it becomes one of the best crops for forage and for building up depleted farm land.

In the West alfalfa is the great forage crop as it is in southern Europe. Drought-resistant alfalfa brought from Turkestan now grows in the semi-arid regions of the West, and the desert places become gardens. Hardier varieties have extended the range of the plant farther north.

FLATIRONS DEADLY WEAPONS

Judge So Rules in a Case Brought Before Him.

Flatirons are deadly weapons capable of producing death. Judge I. T. Shirley so held in Fulton Superior court at Atlanta, Ga., when he told Lon Kinneybrew, a negro, that he could serve five years in the penitentiary for hitting his wife on the head with one.

When Kinneybrew stepped up to plead guilty to assault with intent to murder, his wife was by his side. "I guess you want this man to be let off, don't you?" Judge Shirley asked the woman.

"I don't know, judge; he said he was going to 'kill me if he got out,'" she replied.

Then Shirley asked her for a while. Judge Shirley asked her for a while.

"I had High Opinion of Loved One. Theodore Hobbs, though he died a celibate and his share of love adventures, and it was only lack of courage at the last moment that kept him from the altar. He had actually posted a letter of proposal when his heart failed him, and he is recovering the measure just as it was starting on its fateful journey."

On being reminded one day in later years, after a long and bitter tirade against matrimony—"If a certain lady had been alive, or you would today be the 'slave of a woman,'" he retorted. "A woman, no, not she. She was not a woman, but an angel."

"HOW I LOST THE WAR"

By William Hohenzollern, Former Emperor of Germany, "THE KAISER"

The Kaiser's Memoirs

Beginning in

THE GAZETTE TIMES

Continuing Every Weekday and Every Sunday for 5 Weeks

William II, deposed German Emperor, has written in his exile an autobiography of extraordinary interest. He has presented his own side of the case, of course, and makes many statements which to the American reader will appear absurd; for instance, the assertion that a secret treaty against Germany was made by the U. S., Great Britain and France in 1897.

Not more than a score of persons have read the ex-Kaiser's manuscript, and all these make two comments: (1) The author has produced an absorbing narrative of German history, politics, diplomacy and war operations. (2) The literary style is most unusual for a German writer, being so uninvolved that the reader wonders if the Kaiser had the habit of "Thinking in English."

A Few of Wilhelm's Topics:

Why Bismarck Went Out. Diplomacy With England. Tangle Visit and Moroccan Crisis. Germany's Denial of War Aims. Propaganda Before War. German and Art Treasures. "The Wrong of Versailles." Why Kaiser Avoided Suicide. Secret Talks With the Czar. Visit to Victoria's Deathbed. King Edward's "Lachrymation." Future of German Diplomacy. Attitude of Sir Edward Grey. Emperor Kaul of Austria. Germany When Defeat Came. Fatherland and World's Opinion. Swapping Zanzibar. Holstein, Chamberlain Offer of Alliance. Russians as Asiatles. Germany's Naval Plans. Charges of Atrocities. Wilson and the 14 Points. The Flight to Holland. Germany of the Future.

MODERN WITHOUT FADS OR FRILLS

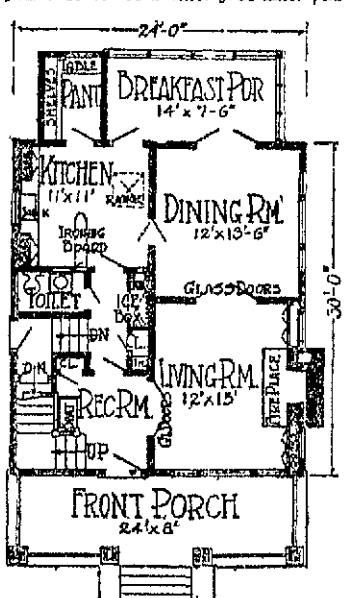

Popular Western Type of Bungalow on Practical Lines.

CONCRETE AND BRICK USED

A Type of Home That Embraces Many Modern Ideas and Avoids Foolish Fads—Front Porch Variation From Usual Practice.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice. He is a specialist on all subjects relating to the subject of building. He is the author of a paper on "The Art of Building a Home." On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is without doubt the best authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1027 North Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Without the waste of fads and frills which may please at first, but usually become an eyesore, this variation of the popular western bungalow type is distinctive without being overly ornate. There is no straining for effect, but judicious use of a variety of materials.

such as brick and concrete as well as lumber and tile. The owner would get attention for this home even if it stood on a wide street of modern residences. The front porch makes an immediate appeal and a lasting impression. It is a variation from the usual practice and a very welcome variation. The porch steps and platform are of concrete and the footings of the house are of the same material. The porch over the door is covered with a substantial shingle roof and the rest is given the popular pergola treatment. Brick foundation and pillars add durability and neatness to the front exterior. Turned wooden pillars painted white and with caps that are neat without being overly fancy further the general attractiveness of the spacious and well planned porch—a portion of the home that is so much used and so affects the general lines that it is well to give it careful thought and special planning. While at first impression this design might be thought to be that of a small house, we soon notice that it is really quite a commodious home. In addition to the usual living room, dining room and kitchen on the first floor there is a planing reception hall and a breakfast room which means a saving of time and effort when the family is alone and there is no special reason for using the dining room. There are three bedrooms upstairs, and none of them are of the box-bed type. Rather they are all of good size, each having the convenience of an ample closet. Nor the good lighting and display in the living room, which is handy to all the three bedrooms.

Besides the three bedrooms there is the sleeping room afforded by a closet bed in the living room so a good-sized family and its guests need never be cramped in this attractive, excellently arranged home.

The use of glass doors between the living room and dining room, a built-in ironing board, a fireplace, and downstairs toilet are added refinements which help to make this one of the most livable designs shown in this department.

CONVEY MEANING IN DANCE

Artists of India Reveal by Gestures a Fundamental Concept of Life Itself.

There is an essential difference between the dance of the East and of the West. Both spring from rhythmic creative impulses, of course, the desire to express an emotion, but western dancing has come to signify little more than an elaboration of movement, a multiplicity of complex steps, while eastern dancing still strives to symbolize by graceful gestures identified with a succession of beautiful postures some fundamental concept of life itself. The dance of the East carries with it something not of time for it is half sculpture. The sacred origin of dancing in India—spurred by the god Shiva—no longer through rhythmic play a sense of all movement, of all creation, within the cosmos, together with the release of the souls of men from unending illusion may be traced in the half-undulant rolls of Indian reputation found as far east as the island of Bali and as far west as the North African Sahara.
